Bender. pastor of the Second Dutch Reformed Church in Jersey City. Mr. McVickar had obtained the license Monday at the office of the City Clerk.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McVickar came to New York and went to the Ritz-Carlton, where the bride has made her New York home for several years. Their marriage, which is of ide interest, came as something of a wide interest, came as something of a surprise, as no public announcement of their engagement had been made.

Mrs. Disston was before her first marriage Miss Rachael E. Dunlop, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunlop of Philadelphia. Mrs. John Wanamaker, Jr., is her only daughter, and she has one son, Mr. William Disston. She has lived in London and Paris a great deal.

sne has lived in London and Paris a great deal.

Mr. McVickar, whose family is one of the oldest in New York, is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James McVickar. His mother before her marriage was Miss Ada Jaffray, one of the famous New York merchants of his day. Mr. McVickar's brothers are Messrs. William Nelson McVickar, Edward S. Jaffray McVickar, John A. McVickar who lives in Paris, and Noel McVickar who lives in Paris, and Noel McVickar. He has been married before. His first wife was Miss Dalsy Emerson. Jaughter of Isaac Emerson of Baitimore, and a sister of Mrs. Raymond T. Baker. He is a first cousin of Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, and related to other well known

New York families.

Mr. McVickar is engaged in the oil husiness. He is a member of various clubs, among them the Union. MRS. BRUCE GLASGOW

GETS PARIS DIVORCE

Former New York Clubman Had Filed Counter Suit.

Special Cable to The New York Herald. Copyright, 1922, by The New York Herald. New York Herald Bureau,) Paris, Dec. 15.

A Paris tribunal to-day granted a divorce to Mrs. Bruce Glasgow, whose husband was at one time polo player of the New York Athletic Club and well known in New York newspaper circles thirty years ago. Col. Glasgow had filed a counter suit charging his wife and their daughters with plotting to ruin him when a year ago they obtained a legal order restraining him from conducting an automobile factory in a suburb of Paris, which he had started since the war.

Mrs. Glasgow was the widow of a wealthy manufacturer. At previous hearings Col. Glasgow told a sensational story of how he had waiked into a trap and been induced to marry the widow.

Eurvenal. Neither change was beneficial. Mme. Gordon's voice is of soprano quality, while that of Mme Matzenauer, who sang Isolde, leans Kurvenal. Neither change was bene Matzenauer, who sang Isolde, leans toward contralto timbre, especially in its lower range. Thus the musical versed, and this, in a lyric drama in which the organic union of mood, text and musical color is so complete, was disadvantageous.

It seems futile, however to plead for the artistic aims of Wagner. He himself died a disappointed man because he felt that the world persisted in ignoring his purpose to transform opera into "drama per musica" and viewed such works as "Tristan und Isolde" through the eyes of the mere seeker after enterrainment. The consequence of the mere seeker after enterrainment. seeker after entertainment. The conditions which Wagner lamented still exist, and therefore operagoers are not disturbed by an exchange of voices so long as those voices produce agree and commendable impersonation. Mr. Schuetzendorf has been heard with
